WAINWRIGHT C.C.F. HOLD CONV. & RE-ELECT OFFICIALS

The annual convention of the Wainwright constituency C.C.F. was held in Wainwright on Saturday last, when there was a good representation despite the bad road conditions and inclement weather.

Mr. Thos. Sanders, of Irma, president, was in the chair, and in the election of officers for the ensuing term he was re-elected to that position along with all his former officers as follows—Mr. Hobbie, President, vice-pres., Mrs. A. Moan, Wainwright, 2nd vice-pres., W. Sanders, Irma, secretary. All directors were re-elected also.

Mr. William Irvine, Alberta organizer, was present at the convention and reported a steady growth of the Federation throughout Canada with progress being slowest in Alberta where the claims of the present Government as to being a progressive party has tended to hold many people away from the Federation.

The following resolution was unanimously passed by the meeting:—"Whereas at the present critical time in our war effort the use of men, machines, money and materials, for the production of unnecessary goods is equivalent to sabotage; and whereas the manufacture of alcoholic liquor employs and absorbs a large quantity of the above men, materials, money and machines; and whereas alcoholic liquors are not a necessity to the health of the people nor to the war effort, but rather act as a definite hindrance to the war effort; Therefore this convention of citizens of the Wainwright Constituency urges upon both the Provincial and Federal Governments that they immediately stop the manufacture and distribution of alcoholic liquors for the duration of the war."

Mr. Kenneth A. Tordy acted as chairman at the evening public meeting, and spoke briefly on the trend in thinking in many countries.

Mr. William Irvine spoke on the subject of total war, and those present heard an earnest plea to Canadians to keep demanding more and more in the way of effort on the part of those who lead our war effort. Mr. Irvine pointed out that it was not reasonable to compare the achievements of production and organization of this war in 1942 to the production and organization of the last war in 1917. The scale of war at this time had so far surpassed that previous idea that people could not be content until Canada was producing everything we could produce.

Mr. Irvine said that when the men and women of Canada marked a "Yes" vote on the recent plebiscite they indicated to the Government that they were willing to send their sons and daughters to the theatre of war, and he was not content with stopping until he assured those men and women that they would have every necessary piece of armament and equipment to fight with. He added that if we did less than this, we were not worth fighting for.

Several resolutions dealing with such matters as total war effort, national administration, profit taxes, etc., were presented to the meeting and declared carried before adjournment of the gathering.

Headed by a galaxy of stars in the All-Canadian Frolicland, 1942, is the star from the Big Top, 35 year old, Terrell M. Jacobs, wild animal trainer and exhibitor whose animal circus will be one of the main attractions on the Midway.

The menagerie coming to the summer fair includes, in addition to lions, tigers, clever elephants, South American llamas, horses and dogs.

In addition to the animal show Frolicland is showing an original South Sea Island production, The Swim Cade, the Oriental Follies, thrilling new rides, and many other novel side shows.

Spectacular Attractions For Edmonton Exhib'n

Spectacular grandstand attractions, a two-ring circus and other Midway attractions, six days of horse racing, with seven races each day, a marvellous display by a squadron of the R.C.A.F. No. 3 Depot (M) and No. 4 I.T.S. Edmonton, are but a few of the items that have been assembled for this year's Edmonton Exhibition to be held July 13 to 18 inclusive.

The grandstand show is possibly the best that has ever visited Western Canada, and includes well-known stars of the stage, screen and radio. Many new acts are included in the cast including several British acts, magnificent stage effects and brilliant lighting combine to make this show a perfect treat.

Reduce railway fares will be available from all points in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, with the exception of Vancouver Island and the B.C. Coast service.

Advance sale of Admission tickets went into effect this week and are on sale at the usual points in all towns and villages in Northern Alberta.

Keep Sewing Machines In Good Conditions

No more sewing machines for home use will be manufactured while there is acute demand for metals for war, the Department of Munitions and Supply has ruled.

When those now in process of manufacture and stocks on hand are disposed of there will be nothing else to do but make those available give the longest service possible. Permits will be granted for making essential repair parts, but extra care may often eliminate this procedure.

Take care of your sewing machine needles. To avoid breaking, see that the presser, foot or attachments are securely fastened by the thumb screw. A large needle and thread to correspond should be used on heavy work. Avoid pulling material when stitching to avoid bending the needle and thus rendering it useless. The machine feeds the work without assistance.

If the machine runs hard after standing idle for some time, use a little kerosene in the oiling places, run the machine rapidly, then wipe clean and oil. Keep well oiled at all points indicated in the instructions that come with the machine.

See that the belt has the correct tension. This should be only enough to keep the belt from slipping.

May Lift Flow at Wainwright Devel't

The Western Oil Examiner of Calgary, carries the following information in the current issue:—

Possibilities of heavier production at Wainwright Development No. 1 at Wainwright than was originally indicated, has been suggested by several visitors to the field. Pumping arrangements have not been altogether satisfactory and news this week again brings up the possibility of improving the recovery.

Last week and the pump broke down and production was interrupted for about three days. Repairs enabled the resumption of production by Wednesday when, in a period of 12 hours the well gave at the rate of 32 bbl. a day. It is estimated that to achieve this, some 800 ft. must have been built up in the hole during the shut down, indicating a heavier volume than the company has yet been able to recover.

Average production at the well is something less than 10 bbl. a day to the present, but it is felt that this could be improved, although officials are not yet clear as to the best method to be employed. It is likely that some steps to improve the recovery will be under way in the near future.

Cotton for War Multiplies 11 Times

Montreal—The extent to which some large business firms in Canada have thrown themselves into the war effort is indicated by comparative figures released here today by Dominion Textile Company Limited.

The information shows that the cotton textile industry of Canada is already 11 times ahead of its 1914-1918 war production records. Many of the mills are running almost 100 per cent on the manufacture of direct war materials or essential production which has an indirect bearing on the war. This fact is all the more inspiring when it is considered that the cotton industry, even in wartime, must maintain a certain percentage of its civilian production to clothe the nation and provide specific textile necessities of life.

Save Gasoline By Coasting Method

Under wartime conditions when conservation of gasoline is essential attention is being drawn to the economies that can be effected through coasting.

Officials of the Alberta Motor Association point out that, according to an estimate of the Industrial Espionage Corporation, coasting is saving Australian motorists "as much as 20 per cent" even more, in gasoline consumption.

Even without free wheeling and such devices coasting resorted to judiciously is relatively safe and saves considerable gasoline. Long, gentle grades free of sharp turns and intersections, are ideal coasting courses.

For the motorist not familiar with the procedure, the following suggestions may be of value: Just before starting a safe coasting descent, the clutch should be disengaged, and the ignition shut off simultaneously. The gear set lever may then be moved to the neutral position and the clutch permitted to re-engage.

An eye should be kept on the speedometer to make sure that the car does not accelerate unduly—a danger because the "dead" engine does not of course, provide the accustomed audible warning. When the road becomes level and the car decelerates to approximately 25 miles per hour, the engine should be started, the clutch disengaged, the gear set lever nursed into high, and the clutch again re-engaged, the engine, of course, rev'd up to approximately the speed at which it would be operating if driving the car at the velocity at which it is coasting.

Canadian Troops Have Good Record

In England

This is another in the series of articles written by Hugh Tompkins, of the Purple News-Record, exclusively for the weekly newspapers of Canada. Mr. Tompkins flew to Britain as a guest of the British Council and was given an opportunity to see what is being done in Britain in war time.

It was natural that a Canadian on a visit to Britain should want to see as much as possible of the Canadian Army overseas. Some of the Canadian editors had sons or brothers in the service. Every one had lists of addresses of boys from home.

Actually, it wasn't so easy to find any individual soldier. The Canadian units are scattered over much of the southern part of England, and while I was there, they were taking part in large-scale manoeuvres, the bulk of the Canadian Corps moving around London and up towards the coast to meet a pretended invasion. It was interesting to see this large army on the move, but hard to locate units or individuals.

The first six editors reached the city late on Saturday night. We were met by E. D. O'Brien, of the British Council, who steered us through the blackout to the Savoy, got us settled in our rooms and by ten o'clock had us sitting down to dinner at the table reserved for us in the grill room. We had hardly begun to eat before a reporter edged himself into the circle proceeded to order himself a meal at the expense of our hosts topped it off with a bottle of whiskey and proceeded to "interview" me because he was beside me. It was an exhibition of nerve such as I had seldom beheld and I suspect our host seethed inside but did not want to say anything in front of his guests. As the bottle got lower I wondered what the interview was going to sound like.

As it turned out it wasn't as bad as it might have been but my name was spread over Britain as the editor of a great group of weekly papers stretching from coast to coast.
"That brought in what the radio and movie people would call 'fan mail' but which might more properly have been called 'letters to the editor-in-chief'."

One of them was a scurrilous postcard, denouncing the conduct of the Canadian troops in Britain. The writer said he was coming to the Savoy the next morning to tell me all about them. I made enquiries, found that the writer was an Australian in London, not too well thought of himself and a bit of a crank. The English people resented what he had done.
The man turned up next day, but I made sure I was away at the time.
Troops Have Excellent Record

After that, I made it my particular business, wherever I went, to ask about the Canadian boys in England.
I received answers from high and low. I slipped away from the group and talked with the English people in their gardens. I got official figures from Canadian Army Headquarters. I talked with civilians and English soldiers. Before I left London I had satisfied myself beyond any doubt.

The record is not perfect of course but there were few serious crimes of misdemeanors. I learned little bad and much good. The one definite episode in which a group of Canadian soldiers took part rather amused me though perhaps I should have been shocked.

The British people cannot speak too highly of the Canadians. Many of our soldiers are billeted in private houses, especially east of London in the villages near the Thames. These boys have been adopted as members of the families.

One day, during manoeuvres at Al-dershot, I went along the street asking the residents what they thought of the Canadians. I asked if they had any complaints if they had been any trouble. Almost invariably, they had nothing but praise. I never heard any criticism of the Second Division which was in the district at the time although there was some of another division which had been there earlier.

Altershot has probably seen more of the Canadians than any other town.
The best authority is doubtless the Provost Marshal of the Canadian Headquarters staff. I had dinner with him one night at the quiet old East Indies and Sporting Club in London.
He gave me comparative figures. It might be expected that the record of the English Regiments, living near their own homes, would be better than that of the Canadians. Actually it isn't. Crime among the soldiers of the Canadian Corps is only one-third as prevalent in proportion to the number enlisted, as in the Imperial Forces. In spite of driving conditions that are strange to Canadians, the highway accident records of Canadians is better in proportion to the number of vehicles. Investigation of accidents showed that there was a tendency to blame the Canadians for more than their share. For instance a woman on called up one day to say that a Canadian Army vehicle had damaged her fence. Asked how she knew it was Canadian, she said it had a hippopotamus painted on the side. It was explained to her that the hippopotamus was not a Canadian animal the vehicle belonged to another Dominion.

A Few Actual Incidents

Perhaps a few simple stories will illustrate the attitude of the English people to the Canadians.

In a small city near London friends called a taxi to take me to the railway station in the blackout. When the driver arrived and found I was a Canadian, he asked if I would mind if he went around by his house and brought his wife along; she would like to talk to a Canadian. When I left them at the station, he would not accept a penny from me.

Waiting for the train in that same station, I talked to three English Aircraftmen in the R.A.F. They were loud in their praise of the Canadians because of an incident that had just happened. They had ordered lunch at the refreshment counter. Service was slow. An English Major came along after their orders were in and insisted on being served first. The girl at the counter refused. A bit of an argument had arisen till it was settled by an R.C.A.F. officer of higher rank who took the part of the boys. He had given the Major a bit of a lecture. "After all," he concluded, "we are all fighting for the same King."

One night, the London Standard had a cartoon. It showed an English girl, rather embarrassed, introducing a young R.C.A.F. man to her parents.

With the words, "I picked him up along the road." The next day I sat beside the editor of the Standard at a luncheon. He told me the story.

He and his wife had been driving to the country home the previous Sunday. Along the road they caught up to a young couple who had their thumb up. Hitch-hikers are not common in England but one had an R.C.A.F. uniform so they stopped to pick them up.

They learned that the girl had just met the Canadian. In fact, it was his first week in England. She invited him to her home and he accepted. As they reached the place where she was to get out, she began to have doubts.

Perhaps he wouldn't be welcomed.
The editor was a good sport. He offered to take the Canadian to his home and that was agreed upon, but as the girl got ready to go she changed her mind. She wouldn't give him up, no matter what her parents said.
So he went along with her.

Many Canadian soldiers are marrying English girls. That is not surprising. Perhaps they get plenty at first but many weddings there have been.
The commanding officer of a Western Ontario battalion told me that 100 of his men had married English and Scottish girls. He said they were good girls, of the best types, for he insisted on interviewing every one before he gave his permission for the marriage to take place.

From the soldier's point of view I believe loneliness plays a part. The boys don't get enough letters from home. Perhaps they get plenty at first but the number falls off. Some don't get any. They want the news from home, but even more, they want to think that they haven't been forgotten. They need letters even more than they need parcels—newspapers, gossip letters, tellings what people at home are doing. And they like the home town newspapers, which are passed from hand to hand, Councils or service clubs would be doing good acts if they would subscribe for the local paper for all boys from their towns who are overseas.

Parcels are appreciated of course.
The troops are adequately fed, but they get few luxuries. Remember that when you send parcels. Sometimes are luxuries in England that are plentiful here. Candies are most welcome. I saw candies only twice in England and they were really confections, not real candies. I would have given much for some real ones. Send dried fancy meats and cheese, marmalade and jams in tins (not glasses), braces and garters and razor blades.

Illustrated magazines, such as Life are heavy to send, but are most welcome. Send a few of them to your soldiers, or to Mr. A. Savaard, Canadian Army Headquarters Cockspur Street London.

But remember letters are best of Fry fish in dripping rather than

AN ARMY EVERY CANADIAN MAY WELL BE PROUD OF

◆ Crouched and poised, with disciplined impatience, waiting to pounce at the enemy, is Canada's great army which will form the spearhead of that decisive offensive just about to be—a dagger pointed at the heart of Hitler.

That something, that the vastness and ruggedness of this great country imparts to men who have still a strong strain of pioneer blood in their veins, has made possible the mastering of an army unsurpassed for physical fitness, and which in mental mould and moral might is the most magnificent that has ever set forth to defend the freedoms and uphold the honor of this young and virile nation of ours.

We, of Massey-Harris, are naturally proud that many from the various divisions and branches of our far-flung organization are serving in the ranks of this great army. It is gratifying, also, that the thousands in our several plants are permitted to play an important part in providing the machines and munitions so essential to the success of that army in modern mechanized warfare.

And the great Canadian Army which has, as our Minister of National Defence says, "a larger proportion of armored troops than any army in the world," will be a decisive factor in hastening the day of victory.

DANGEROUS HOT WEATHER POULTRY PARASITES

Frequently the weak spot in poultry management during the warm spring and summer is failure to maintain clean and sanitary surroundings for the flock. Satisfactory growth and health development of the young flock is not possible when body lice and red mites are present. These dangerous poultry parasites thrive mostly on dirty birds and in filthy shelters. Half the battle to control these pests is removal of filth, says W. T. Scott, Head Poultryman, Dominion Experimental Station, Harrow Ont.

If body lice are detected on the birds one of the most effective measures for de-lousing is an application of blue ointment, procured at any drug store. A portion about the size of a pea for each bird treated smear of between the fingers and thumb and rubbed into the base of the feathers around the vent, head and under the wings, will keep the bird free from lice for some considerable time. Blue ointment is poisonous and must be handled carefully.

Some poultrymen prefer to dust their birds with sodium fluoride or flower of sulphur, applying a pinch scattered through the feathers while holding the bird by the legs with head down.

The detection and destruction of red mites is a different proposition. They thrive in the dirt that collects in the cracks and crevices of the house, nests and roosts, from where they emerge to prey on the birds at night. The remedy is a thorough clean up of the premises and fittings with one or two applications by spray of brush of a mixture of one pound of Eucalyptus powder to two gallons of kerosene oil. An effective though messy application of old crank case oil with equal parts of kerosene will also control mites.

These pests are dangerous and serious disorders may follow a bad infestation. Egg yields may be greatly reduced, the flock may be more susceptible to disease due to a lowered vitality, and a high mortality may be traced to neglect of the simple precautions mentioned.

THE WORK OF THE SEED GROWERS

The members of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association have just concluded, at Oids, Alberta, their usual annual meeting.

For 38 years the professional seed growers of Canada have met together in one or another of the provinces, to discuss how best they could improve the quality and increase the quantity of true-to-variety seeds of cereal, forage, grass, field root and garden vegetable crops. All so that the commercial crops produced by the farmers of Canada will be of higher quality and will give a higher yield per acre. The high quality seeds made available to farmers by these members of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association are the carefully multiplied product of mere handfuls of most precious newly-bred and selected foundation stocks placed in their hands by the scientific plant breeders of the Dominion Experiment Station, of the Rust Research Laboratory and of our Universities.

The high reputation enjoyed on the markets of the world by our Canadian wheat and other crops traces back directly to the painstaking, exacting and careful work—which amounts to a high degree of craftsmanship—done by the members of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association.

Our Canadian seed growers, therefore, together with their associates, our scientific agriculturists, certainly deserve well of this country.

Following factors have tended to decrease supply or increase demand: A fair amount of Canadian wheat is going to Greece each month to relieve

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

The war has emphasized the need in Britain for a greatly enlarged program of health education for the nation. The Very Rev. Peter Bryce, D.D., writes in The Toronto Daily Star. The definite tendency is toward the extension of health services for the people and with a much greater responsibility resting upon the state.

By order-in-council, the Canadian government in February 1942 appointed an advisory committee to investigate the question of health insurance and it is to be hoped that the opportunity will be used to plan the framework of a really broad scheme within the bounds of which it may be possible to attack the basic problems of our Dominion.

In the past 25 years there have been many advances in social service in Canada, including the passing of the Workmen's Compensation Act which became law in 1915, the Mothers' Allowance Act, 1920, the Old Age Pensions Act, 1929, and the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1940. National Health Insurance is another in a line of progressive measures of public welfare.

National Health Insurance has its critics, but they are not demanding its curtailment or abandonment, but rather its extension. They contend that the measure is now too limited in its application. They call for its enlargement to take in the dependents of insured persons, which would bring within its scope 90 per cent of the population. There are indications that this sweeping amendment to the law may soon come to pass, also that the medical service may be extended to include more than that provided by a general medical practitioner. In general, the British Health Insurance Act provides that every boy and girl entering industry becomes an insured person under its provisions. A weekly deduction is made from his or her pay. The employer adds an equal amount, and the state makes a contribution. In the case of manual workers they remain insured whatever their wages become. Salaries workers continue on the list of insured while their earnings are less than £420 per year. An insured person, under the provisions of the National Health Insurance Act chooses a doctor from those on the list, and nearly every family doctor has his name written there. He takes his card to the doctor of his choice and from that moment he is entitled to all the medical care which is within the competence of that doctor to provide. He is supplied free of charge with the drugs, he may need and within limits with the appliances he may require. He may call upon his doctor whether he is well or ill.

Following factors have tended to increase supply or decrease demand: World stocks of wheat (ex Russia) on August 1st likely to be the highest on record, and mostly in Allied countries—Growing conditions are excellent over Western Canada and northern States of the U.S.A.—Wheat crop prospects in India have improved recently owing to more favorable weather.

the food situation—South African wheat and corn supplies are below normal owing to dry weather last season—Sowing conditions in South Africa are unfavorable owing to dryness.

If the insured person is taken ill and unable to work, a weekly cash payment is given to him. This is termed sickness benefit and it is administered under government supervision by approved societies by the insured themselves. If the insured woman has a baby she is entitled to a cash maternity benefit. If the wife of an insured man has a baby he may receive the cash maternity benefit, but it must be paid to the wife. The surplus usually acquired by the approved societies is spent in providing payments for dental and ophthalmic treatments, or for support at a convalescent home.

"DO YOU KNOW?"

That the R.C.A.F. has already had to supply 60,000 greatcoats, 150,000 uniforms, 112,000 pairs of boots, 400,000 blankets.

That a "Belly Landing" is when a pilot lands a plane without dropping the landing wheels. It is only resorted to in an emergency as it generally damages the plane.

There is an old proverbial saying that "The sole is half the soul!" This is implicitly true, for who does not feel his natural self when well-shod with shoes that are repaired by skilled craftsmen with fine-grade leather essential for long service and comfort? For that added essential take your shoes to the O.K. Shoe Repair, Main Street. The price, too, will be found pleasing.

PURE STOCKS OF CEREAL SEEDS
The most important event, each year, connected with the production of pure seed is the annual meeting of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association. This was held during the third week in June at Olds, Alberta. Prominent seed growers from all over Canada were gathered in the Provincial School of Agriculture and Home Economics to discuss ways and means of maintaining and improving the quality of Canadian seed. No one could attend these meetings without wondering what would happen to the yield and quality of our field crops were it not for the efforts of a comparatively small group of hard-working seed growers.

Regulations governing the production of Registered seed are made by the Canadian Seed Growers' Association. Field and seed inspections, essential to the accuracy of pedigrees and observance of purity standards, are the responsibility of the Plant Products Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

The various terms applied to the different types of seeds are confusing to many farmers. Actually they need not be. By purchasing Registered seed, the farmer can be assured of pedigree and performance. This is all he desires when buying a pure-bred bull or boar.

We cannot avoid the use of terms such as Foundation seed, Elite seed, Registered seed and Certified seed. Hilbert we have had First Generation Registered, 2nd, 3rd, 4th Generations, and so on. Each year, the seed is one more year removed from Elite, which produces First Generation Registered. However, the standards of purity are the same for all generations, so as long as a stock will pass field and seed inspection it might as well be just "Registered." At the Olds meeting it was decided to adopt this practice; namely, to have "First Generation Registered" and thereafter "Registered." The decision, however, was by no means unanimous.
